

February 2009

Announcement

Wilson Elser names Daniel J. McMahon as new Chairman

The Executive Committee of Wilson Elser Moskowitz Edelman & Dicker LLP has elected Daniel J. McMahon, Chairman of the Executive Committee, succeeding Thomas W. Wilson Sr. Tom will continue as a Partner with Wilson Elser and serve as Chairman Emeritus. He will also remain as a member of the Executive Committee.

“Our firm looks forward to the new leadership that Dan offers and represents. Our entire partnership welcomes and supports him in his new role,” said Tom, who has led Wilson Elser for the past 30 years. Tom built the firm from a base of 25 lawyers to a 750-lawyer firm with 20 offices across the nation.

Dan, who is based in Wilson Elser’s Chicago office, has been a part of the firm’s transition team for several years and also served as Chairman of the firm’s Operations Group and as Senior Managing Partner. “Wilson Elser is a great firm and has always adapted to changing times,” Dan said. “I look forward to leading the firm as we grow and continue to serve the best interests of our clients.”

Wilson Elser is a national firm of approximately 750 lawyers serving clients from six of the seven continents. In addition to the 20 U.S.-based offices, the firm provides clients with international capabilities through a network of affiliate firms in France, Germany and Mexico.

Contact us at alerts@wilsonelser.com.

This communication is for general guidance only and does not contain definitive legal advice.

© 2009 Wilson Elser Moskowitz Edelman & Dicker LLP. All rights reserved.